

Abstract

The present invention relates to kinases involved in inflammatory processes and the modulation of the function of such kinases in order to positively 5 influence inflammatory diseases.